

OAKEN: "Thank you, family! Bye bye for now."
 KRISTOFF: "We need supplies." [GO ON]

KRISTOFF (cont'd): "And where are your carrots? I'm gonna need 'em all."
 OAKEN: "I welcome you to our highly precious produce department."
 ANNA: "And hi, sir. I mean, hoo-hoo?"
 OAKEN: "Hoo-hoo."
 ANNA: "I was hoping you might have a slightly less smelly, more size-appropriate winter cloak or dress or something for climbing the North Mountain?"
 OAKEN: "Something for climbing the North Mountain where many have frozen to death? Yah!" [MUSIC OUT]

OAKEN (cont'd):
 "I have exactly what you are needing. Hygge." [GO ON]

ANNA: "Hygge? What's hygge?"
 KRISTOFF: "Hygge is...not tripling the price of produce and winter gear in a crisis! This is criminal."
 OAKEN: "Hygge is also not insulting a shop owner when you are needing of his services."
 ANNA: "But what is hygge?" [GO ON]
